Decisions, decisions...

The best decisions are made when you have the best options available to you.

In today's workplace, employees want their employers to provide financial security, quality health insurance, a safe working environment and the ability to save for retirement.

Whether you have four employees or 400, managing a business today is more complicated than ever. As labor laws affecting wage and hour, workers' compensation, health insurance and disability continually change, it's important you're aware of these changes and how they can positively or negatively impact your business practices. Now there is a program that will do just that – at no cost to you.

Introducing CHOICE: Creating Human resources Options and Insurance Choices for Employers.

CHOICE is a no-cost evaluation program that helps employers looking for lower human resources costs while increasing or maintaining quality benefits for their employees and families. With CHOICE, employers can make cost-effective human resources and insurance decisions that best fit their particular needs by understanding the many options available.

"We realize that human resources costs are a huge concern for employers every year. Employers have asked us for assistance and this CHOICE program will enable businesses to find the most suitable options for their particular needs."

What is the Emplicity CHOICE program?

It's a no-cost evaluation program that helps employers make informed decisions that best fit their particular needs by understanding the many human resources options available.

Is CHOICE simply another human resources plan designed as an alternative?

No. CHOICE is a program that evaluates your company's business practices and makes recommendations on possible new programs that may provide additional value at a lower cost.

As an employer, can CHOICE save me money and increase my employees' benefits?

Yes. By participating in CHOICE, you'll have access to one of our expert CHOICE representatives who will help you identify and evaluate your company's human resources options involving payroll, 401(k), workers' compensation, labor law compliance and more.

What does participating in CHOICE cost?

Nothing. CHOICE is designed to educate employers about their alternatives when making human resources decisions and how to save money and ensure the best return on their investment.

How do we participate in CHOICE?

It's as simple as filling out and returning the enclosed postage-paid reply card. Or, you can simply call us toll-free and we'll be there whenever you have questions about your company's human resources options. There are no salespersons and no pitches - just an expert CHOICE representative who will provide important information and answer all of your human resources questions.
